

Year 3 Week 3 Home Learning

Hello Year 3!

Welcome to week 3, we are now half way to half term! I really hope you are keeping safe and well at home. What are you enjoying reading? If you need any further reading resources there are free online texts which are levelled for age and ability here <https://www.oxfordowl.co.uk/>.

This week in maths we are practising counting in 3, 4, 8, 50 and 100s. You have done this before in September so this should be a good recap for you. You will be using your times table facts to solve multiplication and division problems. I have attached times table grids to help you if needed. I have also included 'challenges' which are trickier, if you feel confident and have the time, have a go!

In English this week, you will practise editing and improving sentences. Then for the rest of the week you will be focussing on an extract from a book called 'Interview with a Bengal Tiger'. This is attached, you need to read the first part about a tiger. I have also added the wolf section if you would like further reading.

Parents as before please feel free to adapt this if needed to suit you and your child. Play games related to learning, make it practical or talk through the learning. Paper packs are available at the school. If you need lined paper or any further resources please contact. If you have any questions please email the school, I am in during normal hours with keyworker children.

My home learning email is year3@oldheath.essex.sch.uk

Please email if you have any questions or would like to send over copies of children's work. I would love to see and hear what the children are up to.

Have a great week!

Miss Baker
